HELLO AUNTIE, HELLO UNCLE

Our newest exhibit Hello Auntie, Hello Uncle: Conversations with Our Elders honors the diverse ways Elders contribute to our communities, listening to their rich tapestry of stories collected over time. This exhibit also celebrates grassroots organizations and caregivers for helping nurture a space in which our Elders are supported as valuable members of our society. Come experience an ode to our Elders in the New Dialogues Initiative Gallery through February 23, 2025.

HOLDING ON by Sophia N. Lee

Picture Book; $18.99

Holding On tells the story of a young girl who is always singing with her Lola (grandmother). They sing while they are cleaning, cooking, and most importantly, while they are reminiscing the past. She remembers Lola's and Mama's lullabies, and the way Lola's house was filled with the sound of sweet memories. This book reminds us all that music can build strong and significant memories, especially with our loved ones and families.

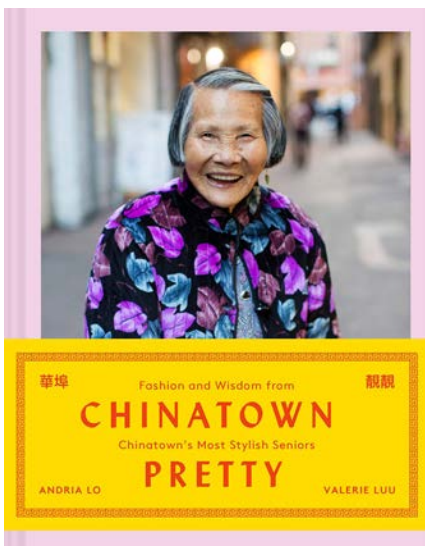

CHINATOWN PRETTY

Fashion and Wisdom from Chinatown's Most Stylish Seniors

by Valerie Luu and Andria Lo

Art Book; $24.95

Chinatown Pretty highlights the style and creativity of elders in Chinatowns everywhere. Since 2014, authors Andria Lo and Valerie Luu have been conducting street photoshoots of stylish elders across the country and asking them for the story behind their outfit. Chinatown Pretty features those stories and photos, and is a tribute to the grace, good humor, and trendsetting fashion of Asian American elders. You'll find a wide variety of styles in these pages, and their stories are always unexpected. Complemented by stylish book design and a whimsical color palette, Chinatown Pretty is the perfect way to celebrate the joy and resilience of Chinatown's elders.

THE BOOK OF PRIDE

LGBTQ Heroes Who Changed the World

by Mason Funk

Non-fiction; $24.99

Learn more about the history of the LGBTQ rights movement from The Book of Pride! The Book of Pride collects the oral histories of LGBTQ elders and allies who were involved with the push for LGBTQ rights during the twentieth century. Capturing these stories is vital, as with every elder we lose we lose all the stories of their life, and this history is not widely recorded or taught. This book contains a wide variety of identities and perspectives, with interviews from lifelong activists and those who just wanted the right to exist. Author Mason Funk traveled all across the United States to interview elders and preserve their stories for the next generations. The Book of Pride reminds us of how far we've come as a community, and how important it is to remember and celebrate those who paved the way.

AGE-FRIENDLY VIBES

Prices starting at $4

Age-Friendly Vibes is committed to creating products that celebrate aging and to combating ageism in our society. Their items aim to show people that aging is something to be celebrated, not feared. Growing older is a gift! Check out our selection of cards, stickers, and pins from Age-Friendly Vibes that celebrate the elders and caretakers in your life. Age-Friendly Vibes partners with organizations like Justice in Aging, the Ruth Frost Parker Center for Abundant Aging, and the American Society on Aging, donating a portion of their proceeds to support organizations fighting ageism.

SOUND CHECK!

Sound Check! The Music We Make is an interactive exhibit that delves into the significance of music in Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander stories. Themes such as creative personal expression, cultural connection and healing, as well as industry influence are explored. Sound Check! unites personal storytelling with AANHPI community history, culture, and art with the aim to promote racial and social equity. This exhibit is on view until September 2024.

PLAYING AT THE BORDER A Story of Yo-Yo-Ma

by Joanna Ho

Picture Book; $17.99

Accomplished cellist Yo-Yo Ma is world renowned for his musical talent. In this particular story, he undertakes a conscious decision to hold a performance at the Rio Grande, bordering between U.S. and Mexico. Recounting Ma's life experience and actions, this book teaches elementary school aged children about the importance of connecting diverse people, communities, and cultures. Celebrate the power of music to break barriers and build bridges, with Joanna Ho and Teresa Martinez in Playing at the Border: A Story of Yo-Yo Ma.

4

BOOMI'S BOOMBOX by Shanthi Sekaran

Middle Grade Fiction; $18.99

Shanthi Sekaran's Boomi's Boombox is a heartwarming story about how music can connect us across generations. Twelve-year-old Boomi, grieving her father's recent passing and her increased isolation from her family and her peers, discovers unexpected refuge in her father's prized jukebox. When played, the jukebox magically transports her to 1986 and the days of her father's youth. Through this strange sonic connection, Boomi explores her newly immigrated family's drive and passion to survive and celebrate their culture.

THE STATE OF SOUND BLOCKS

from Uncle Goose Blocks; $102

Create the United States of Music with Uncle Goose's State of Sound Blocks! On each block is a carved shape of a vinyl record with the name of a state and its order of incorporation into the country. Labelled on other sides are a specific musical genre that belong to the state, its description, as well as the genre's active decades; it also includes additional notable styles of music. The final side of the block is a puzzle piece. Connect the cubes and have fun learning about the history of music in the U.S. This would make a great gift for anyone enthusiastic about music history knowledge!

GUMA' GELA'

Part land, part sea, all ancestry is the motif inspiring the work of Guma' Gela', a queer CHamoru art collective consisting of members from the Mariana Islands and its diaspora. 13 artists have come together to immerse the viewer in a multimedia experience, including sculpture, soundscape, writing, printmaking, weaving, costume design, adornments, and more, to build a connection with CHamoru life, history, and traditions. On view in the George Tsutakawa Art Gallery until May 12, 2024.

I LALAI I BILEMBAOTUYAN

by Catherine Payne and John Payne II

Picture Book; $24

Listen to Lålai as her grandfather teaches her to play the bilembaotuyan, a unique CHamoru instrument with a captivating sound. Here, music is a gift passed through generations, emphasizing the preservation of the wisdom and values of our elders. This story educates children on the significance of patience and hard work, as well as touching on the theme of grief. Read along as Lålai carries on her grandfather's memory by sharing their music with others.

MOTHER TREE by Olympia Terral

Picture Book; $23.99

Mother Tree, written by Olympia Terral and beautifully illustrated by Dawn Lees Reyes, is about Atisa, the last surviving mature hâyun lågu tree on Guam. The story explores the friendships she fosters with the flora and fauna and how she fights to survive. This book will serve as a great tool to help teach young ones the importance of protecting our local ecosystems and learning about the natural world around us.

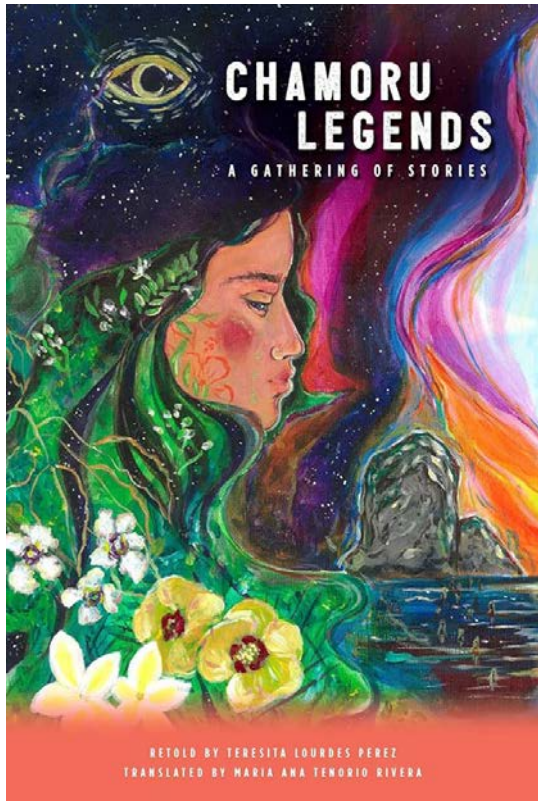

6

JUANIT by Chris Perez Howard

Fiction; $23.99

The story of Juanit is a coming-of-age journey following a young mixed CHamoru girl in the 1960's as she experiences the loss of her mother, and is torn away from her slice of sanctuary in Guam. In California, Juanit faces more challenges, school, culture shock, and an awful step mother. Feeling traumatized and alone, Juanit's father sends her back to Guam to live with friends, where she questions her heritage and belonging.

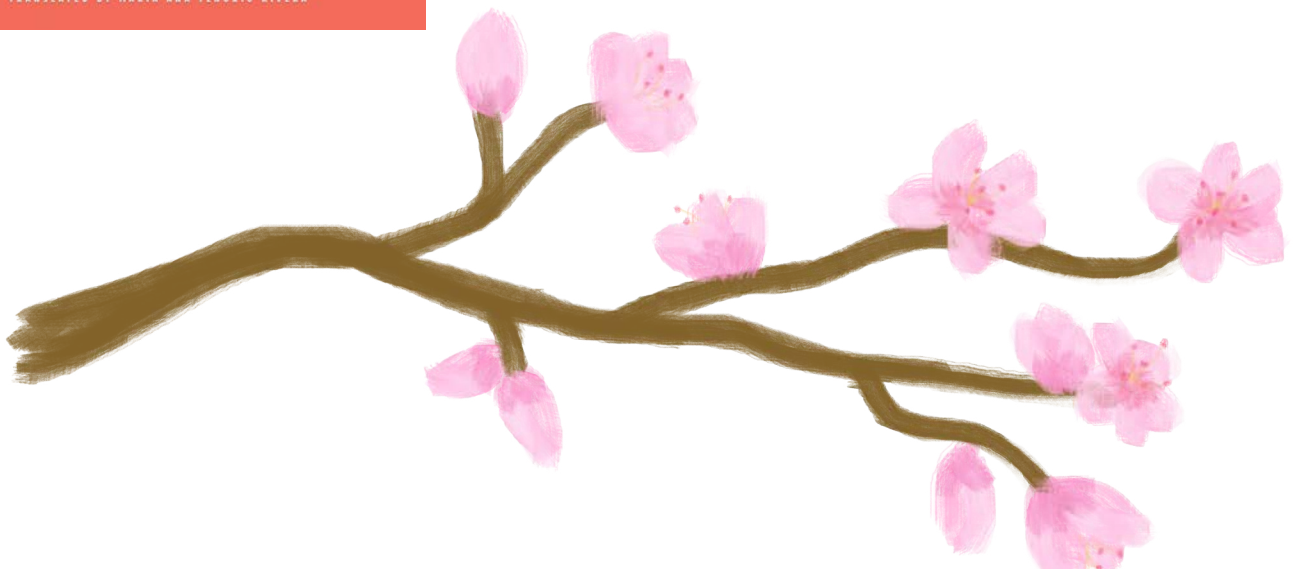

Content warnings: sexual abuse, teen pregnancy, drug use, and loss of a parent

CHAMORU LEGENDS A Gathering of Stories by Teresita Lourdes Perez

Bilingual Fiction; $24

This book is great for those interested in learning the CHamoru language or connecting with the cultural tales of Guam. Author Teresita Lourdes Perez includes her retellings and personal reflections of twelve CHamoru tales, each vibrantly illustrated by a different CHamoru artist. Each story is written in English and the CHamoru language, and the collection as a whole is a layered homage to storytelling as a rich and nourishing support structure.

BE A REVOLUTION by Ijeoma Oluo

Non-fiction; $26.99

In this newest work from local author Ijeoma Oluo, she asks: What can we do about racism and systems of oppression? She highlights voices of those involved in current anti-racist activism in America, what they're doing to create change for intersectional racial equity, and how the reader themselves can make changes in their own communities.

Oluo's other books, So You Want to Talk About Race and Mediocre are also available in the Marketplace and serve as a great introduction to the topics discussed in Be a Revolution.

WE ARE NOT STRANGERS by Josh Tuininga

Graphic Novel; $24.99

Inspired by a true events and set locally in Seattle's Central District and Nihonmachi (Japantown), We Are Not Strangers tells the story of Marco Calvo's grandfather, who is affectionately called Papoo. When Papoo dies, many Japanese American families attend the funeral, causing Marco to ask himself how Papoo knew these people so well. We learn through Papoo's perspective about his life as a Sephardic Jewish immigrant and how he came to help a man named Sam Akiyama and his family. Together, they create a plan to keep Sam's business afloat while him and his family are unjustly incarcerated due to Executive Order 9066, and change each other's lives forever.

THE MANICURIST'S DAUGHTER by Susan Lieu

Non-fiction; $23.99; Signed copies available!

Susan Lieu reveals a poignant memoir about her twenty year long investigation into the mysterious circumstances surrounding her mother's death during plastic surgery. The Lieu family fled to California as refugees from Vietnam in the 1980s, where Susan's mother became a successful owner of two nail salons. A woman with a vibrant personality and continuous achievements, the family was shocked when she died from a botched tummy tuck when Susan was 11 years old. Afterwards, nobody mentioned the event or her mother. Susan chronicles her hunt for the truth about why her thriving mother would undergo such a procedure, the surgeon who preyed on Vietnamese immigrants, and why no one wanted to speak about her mother's past in Vietnam. Eventually, she unearths the difficult reality about her own life, her mother, and the cost of severe beauty standards.

GUM SAAN TO GOLDEN SPIKE

by GS2 Committee & U.W. Asian American Studies 405

Graphic Novel; $36

Based on true events, Gum Saan to Golden Spike tells the story of Wong Ho Ping as he leaves China in search of gold in California. It is a local student-produced comic novella, based on an original film that was created in honor of the 150th Anniversary of Golden Spike Day. Gum Saan to Golden Spike is the first book in Passage Through Seattle: Wong Family Saga, 1851-2023, a trilogy which chronicles Wong Ho Ping and his descendants' journey from digging for gold, to striking against the Central Pacific Railroad, to working on the Transcontinental Railroad.

The sequel, In a Yellow Tone ($37.50), is also available in the Marketplace.
