

Wing Luke Asian Museum Marketplace Seeks Artists' Work

The Wing Luke Asian Museum is the country's premier pan-Asian Pacific American museum. A Smithsonian affiliate, the museum's mission is to engage APA communities and the public in exploring issues related to the culture, art and history of Asian Pacific Americans.

In collaboration with the community, the Wing Luke Asian Museum is working with Olson Sundberg Kundig Allen architects to rehabilitate the historic East Kong Yick Building in Seattle's International District. The museum will open in its new permanent home in May 2008. Within this compelling environment, a new museum store, called the Marketplace, will sell books, gifts and artists' work that expand visitors' experience of the museum. Marketplace goals include supporting the museum's mission, educating and inspiring visitors and providing continuing support for museum programs.

The Marketplace will offer gifts, jewelry, cards, journals, ornaments, clothing, accessories and original art. Items made of ceramic, glass, metal, paper, fiber, recycled/found materials and mixed media will be included. Please note:

- Items related to or inspired by Asian Pacific American culture are of particular interest.
- We expect the best selling price range to be between $20 and $95 retail.
- 2-D works can be no larger than 18" X 18". 3-D works can be no larger than 18" X 24".
- The Marketplace cannot accommodate framed art that must hang on a wall.

Please send information below and any questions you may have to: artistcall@wingluke.org . Images and information must be received by December 1, 2007. No telephone calls, please.

Include:

- Contact information. Your name, address and phone number.
- Images. Up to six jpeg images.
- Price list. Please be sure your price list clearly corresponds to your jpeg images.
- Let us know whether the works are one of a kind or are able to be reproduced.
- Current representation. Let us know where your work is currently shown or sold.
- Brief Statement: Tell us how your work fits into or supports the mission of engaging APA communities and the public in exploring issues related to the culture, art and history of Asian Pacific Americans. For more information visit www.wingluke.org.

Your work will be reviewed by a retail advisory panel, and you will receive a response on or by February 1, 2008.

Thank you for your interest in the Wing Luke Marketplace.